There were a few corrections noted: On page 2, insert “has” into the following sentence: Chair Robb reminded members that the Authority has two committees. On page 3, insert “to” in the following sentence: Chief Fiscal Officer Randy Kurtz said the Authority hopes to hire a victim needs assessment contractor in May or June with a six-month timeline to complete the project.

The motion was adopted by unanimous vote.

Chairman’s Remarks

Chair Robb thanked everyone for their attendance at the meeting and especially acknowledged Paula Wolff, Strategic Opportunities Committee Chair, and staff for their work on the committee. She also thanked Board members that participated in the committee’s work by seeking feedback from stakeholders and other interested parties.

ICJIA Audit Hoc Committee

Chair Robb directed the member’s attention to item IV on the agenda. She stated that the recently released audit of several Authority grant programs should remind Board members of their duties and responsibilities. As a result of this audit, the Authority has formed an Audit Ad Hoc Committee, chaired by Amy Campanelli. Other members include Maureen Josh, Mike McCoy, and Jennifer Vollen-Katz. This committee will review the audit to ensure the audit findings are not repeated. Chair Robb thanked the members for their leadership in making certain protocols and procedures are in place so that the audit recommendations can be carried out.

Director Maki echoed Chair Robb’s remarks stating that he and Authority Executive Staff are committed to presenting the Board with transparent funding recommendations backed by research. He went on to say that the Board’s role is to protect the legitimacy of the agency. Ms. Campanelli stated that she was honored to take on this task and feels that the Committee and staff will be able to review the report and provide an update to the Board soon. Ms. Hora stated that much of the report’s recommendations relate to staff and that she wished she could have done something. She stated that she hopes this committee will give guidance to Board members on this. Director Maki reminded the group that the Strategic Opportunities Committee and the VOCA/VAWA planning process will inform and strengthen the agency’s grant making in the future. He went on to state that one of his big goals is to create an infrastructure which board members can use to make decisions. The Audit report is available on-line and the staff will resend the link. Hearing no additional questions regarding the audit, Chairman Robb asked Director Maki for this his report.

Executive Director's Report

Director Maki began his remarks by thanking Board members for their engagement, which has really improved over the last year. He also wanted to thank Illinois Department of Children's Services Director George Sheldon for attending the meeting. Director Sheldon said he is looking forward to working with the Authority. Director Maki thanked him and said he hopes the agency's resources can be coordinated with those of the Illinois Departments of Corrections and other agencies.

Director Maki next introduced the Authority's new General Counsel and Chief of Staff Angie Weis, who recently joined the agency.

Director Maki then provided an update since the last quarterly Board meeting. He said the Authority hosted training on swift, certain, and fair probation practices for almost 90 practitioners. He noted the Authority also hosted a training on posttraumatic stress and trauma in the criminal justice system that was very well attended.

Director Maki also updated the Board members on the VOCA and VAWA planning process. He said the Authority was in the final stages of procuring a technical assistance provider, will hire a victimologist to lead the research aspects of the effort, and was meeting weekly internally to prepare for a huge increase in grant making. Director Maki stated that the agency will go from a spend rate of about $15 million to approximately $70 million. Given this, many Board members may be fielding questions regarding VOCA funding. Director Maki asked Board members to direct those questions to him. Director Maki concluded his report by stating that a big piece of the Authority's work has been around the implementation of the Grants Accountability & Transparency Act. Hearing no questions, Director Maki asked Chief Financial Officer Randy Kurtz for the financial report.

Authority Financial Report

Authority Chief Financial Officer Randy Kurtz outlined major fiscal matters for the Authority members. He stated that through 10 months of the state fiscal year, the Authority spent about $25.5 million, including $19 million under federal programs and the balance for administrative costs. VOCA expenditures to date were at approximately $10 million; VAWA spending was at approximately $2.2 million; JAG spending was about $5.5 million; and the balance of $1.5 million in spending was for other federal programs. He referred to Director Maki's comments earlier regarding VOCA funding. The Authority received $78 million last federal fiscal year and will be receiving another $88 million this federal fiscal year, he said. Each award has a three-year grant cycle. He said the Authority completed a very transparent and comprehensive state procurement process to hire a technical assistance firm. Aeffect has been hired to provide this technical assistance, which is a woman-owned firm. The firm won the project through a competitive process and had the best price and presentation. Their victim needs assessment will be completed by December 1, 2016. Finally, Mr. Kurtz reiterated that during calendar year 2017 the Authority will reach a spending rate of about $70 million a year. Hearing no questions, Chairman Robb thanked Mr. Kurtz for his report and moved on to the next agenda item.

Committee Reports

Chair Robb asked Ms. Hora for Budget Committee updates. Ms. Hora said the committee last met on May 12. The Budget Committee approved new grants and several budget reductions. The reductions totaled $140,000. Two new grants were made, including one to the Authority for a drug strategy impact evaluation and one to Illinois Department of Corrections for transitional services for females. Funding opportunities for information sharing among criminal justice agencies and for Partnerships to Reduce Violent Crime were also approved. She noted that an award to the Illinois State Police made in 2013 was rescinded and then designated to the Illinois Department of Human Services to enhance the integration of systems used by ISP to collect, evaluate, and exchange criminal background information. ISP and DHS will be working closely on this project.

With respect to the Violence Against Women Act funding, the committee approved reductions and then approved funding designations to the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence and Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault. With respect to the Victims of Crimes Act funding, the committee approved designations to currently funded victim service programs. Most programs received designation amounts that reflect an increase of 25 percent over the previous year.

Ms. Hora also informed the members of approved designations to the Illinois State Police to augment its electronic filing system for the Sex Offender Registration and Notification program. As for state funding, FY16 funding for Illinois Family Violence Coordinating Councils and Safe from the Start was approved in case appropriations for the two programs were made in the state's stop gap budget. Chair Robb thanked Ms. Hora for her report and asked for a Strategic Opportunities Committee Report from Ms. Wolff.

Ms. Wolff began her report by thanking Chair Robb for the kind words in her report. She reiterated her thanks to the staff and committee members for their participation in the committee's important work.

Ms. Wolff referred members to a yellow piece of paper, entitled "Strategic Plan for the Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant FFY 16-19." She said the committee approved the draft report, which includes four sections: Strategic Plan, Principles, Priorities, and the Process by which the Authority will achieve the strategic plan's goals. The Guiding Principles describe the values of the Authority's work while the Grant Making Principles describe the operational procedures used to actualize the Guiding Principles. She explained the principles came from a great deal of input and revision from members, stakeholders, and other experts. The report also included the JAG Goals. Those, too, were developed with much input and revision from the committee and stakeholders beginning in November and ending with committee approval in March. Finally, the report included the process by which the Authority will work toward the goals. This process, or Staff Objectives, included staff activities and Committee Action Steps. Ms. Wolff highlighted a few of the next steps in the plan. Research staff will be engaging Board members and other criminal justice system stakeholders to identify needs of the criminal justice system.

The Committee also discussed the rigorous use of Request for Proposals (RFP) for JAG funding and agreed to exempt the “Planning, Evaluation and Technology Improvement” purpose area from the RFP process as the Research and Analysis Unit as well as the Information Sharing project are functional areas of the Authority’s work.

Ms. Wolff asked that Director Maki’s memo dated May 25, 2016 be included in the notes, as it explains the next steps well (Attachment A). State’s Attorney Kibler asked for a timeline on when Authority staff will be conducting the focus groups. Mr. Maki said focus groups will be completed over the next 8 to 12 months. Staff will begin with focus groups that will include many Board members, he said. The results of these focus groups will inform questions to survey a larger group of criminal justice agencies, associations, etc.

Chair Robb asked for a motion to put the JAG Strategic Plan on the next Board meeting agenda. President Preckwinkle made the motion and Ms. Josh seconded it. The motion was approved and adopted by unanimous vote.

Research & Practice Presentation and Panel Discussion

Director Maki introduced the Criminal Justice Coordinating Councils presentation and panelists. He stated that the Illinois Criminal Justice and Sentencing Reform Commission has recommended coordinating councils partly because the Commission identified one major problem with the Illinois criminal justice system—state agencies fund criminal justice separately. This siloed funding approach prevents coordination. The Commission report asked the Authority to establish councils across the state. Director Maki introduced the panelists and referred members to their biographies in the meeting packet (see Attachment B). Panelist David Olson, Ph.D., began his presentation by explaining that councils should create learning systems within local jurisdictions so that all systems get a better understanding of how agencies operate but also to see themselves as interconnected and part of the local system (Attachment C).

Next, Director Maki asked Sentencing Policy Advisory Council Analyst Mark Powers to present the Authority’s online data tools. Mr. Powers shared the tools and their utility with the Board members. It is available to any jurisdiction and can be found here: <http://www.icjia.state.il.us/sac/tools/DataProfiles/CriminalJusticeDataProfiles.cfm>.

Director Maki then introduced the panelists. They included Judge Robb, founder of McLean County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council; Donna Jo Maki, director of Lake County's Coordinating Council; Kathryn Bocanegra, violence prevention director at Enlace and member of Governor's Commission on Criminal Justice & Sentencing Reform; and MaryAnn Dyar, program director of Adult Redeploy Illinois. (See attachment C for biographies.)

Director Maki asked the panelists to explain their projects. Judge Robb explained the origins for the McLean County's Coordinating Council, which developed as a response to the issue of jail overcrowding in McLean County. Two main advocacy groups pushed the community to look at alternatives to building a new jail.

Ms. Maki also explained the 30-year origin of the Lake County Executive Justice Council. Lake County's work also began from the issue of jail overcrowding. Ms. Bocanegra spoke to the need for community members and ex-offenders to be included in councils planning and activities. She used the example of the health systems' inclusion of consumers in system planning. She argued that the principle of inclusion also applies to the criminal justice system.

Ms. Dyar explained the Adult Redeploy Illinois model and ARI's approach to local communities. Program administrators identify natural leaders in the community and present incarceration data to spark interest and discussion. As a multidisciplinary group coalesces, principles and outcomes can be discussed and agreed upon.

A conversation ensued on the natural geographic boundaries for councils, essential system players, high utilizers, and how information sharing is essential at council meetings. Several Board members and panelists reiterated the importance of data sharing to inform planning and suggested that assisting local communities understand available data is one important way that the Authority can help.

Judge Robb reminded the group how important relationships are in developing effective collaborations. Director Baldwin discussed the importance of using assessment tools to assess risk and focusing post-release supports on one or two needs provided by one or two providers.

Director Maki thanked the panel and presenters.

Public Comment

Chair Robb then allowed Director Maki to facilitate the public comment. The first speaker was Theresa DuBois from Family Rescue, a domestic violence agency on the South Side of Chicago that provides services and advocacy for victims of domestic violence. She spoke on the importance of VOCA funds to domestic violence agencies. She said the Office of Victims of Crime priorities include salary parity, restoration of VOCA funds lost in previous years, and expanding services. She said she and her colleagues believe this is an appropriate use of the VOCA funds. Ms. DuBois went on to say that the domestic violence community has also done extensive work to evaluate the efficacy of services provided to victims. She cited several evaluations. She encouraged the Board members to keep victims on the agenda as the VOCA plan proceeds. Director Maki thanked Ms. DuBois for her comments.

The second speaker was Kathy Doherty, executive director of the Chicago Metropolitan Battered Women's Network, a member organization for domestic violence agencies in the Chicagoland area. She cited an example of a 25-percent increase to a local domestic violence agency's VOCA grant. A 25-percent increase would total $12,000, which, she said, doesn't do much for expanding programming or salary parity. She said a 100-percent increase would allow her program to hire another advocate who could provide 200 victims with services at the domestic violence courthouse. She said legal services are the second most requested service by people calling the Statewide Domestic Violence Helpline. In conclusion she stated that she has gained much insight from attending Authority meetings over the past few months. She stated that her agency and member organizations look forward to the strategic planning process and look forward to being at the table to expand services for domestic violence victims. She stated the network has been involved in the Authority's Victim Services Ad Hoc Committee in the past and has a lot to contribute, including research and exceptional collaborative projects with law enforcement. She thanked the Board for their ongoing partnership.

The third speaker was Kathryn Bocanegra. She echoed the importance of victims' voice in the planning process but also stressed the necessity to include the voice of community survivors of street violence. She stressed that victims' voices are often equated with punitive regimes, but many families from high stakes communities want rehabilitation and restoration of their communities. She stated that she hoped this, too, would be considered in the expansion of victim support.

Adjourn

Chair Robb asked if there were any other members of the public who wished to make a comment. Seeing none, she asked for a motion to adjourn the meeting. Ms. Hora moved to adjourn the meeting and the motion was seconded by Ms. Wolff. The meeting was adjourned at 11:30 a.m.

To: Strategic Opportunities Committee Members

From: John Maki, Executive Director

Date: May 19, 2016

Subject: May 25, 2016, Strategic Opportunities Committee Meeting Information

This memo provides a brief overview of the Committee's work ahead of the May 25, 2016, Strategic Opportunities Committee meeting.

At the Committee meeting April 27, 2016, we discussed action steps to be completed as outlined in the FFY16 Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant Strategic Plan approved in March. At the conclusion of the meeting, we asked staff to develop and present recommendations on how to move forward on these action steps.

Please find below an outline of the action steps we approved and staff's corresponding recommendations. These recommendations will be discussed in more detail on May 25th.

1. Action Step: "The Committee will explore whether it should establish ~~percentages~~ priorities for Byrne JAG funding that should be set aside for particular program areas."
 - Staff recommendations:
 - Over the next 8-12 months, the Authority's Research & Analysis Unit will survey stakeholders to determine needs and emerging issues for the Byrne JAG priorities. Stakeholders will include practitioners in law enforcement, prosecution, defense, courts, probation and parole, correctional facilities, and prevention and education.
 - To inform the survey, research staff will first conduct small focus groups of stakeholders representing both JAG priority areas and Illinois' regional and demographic diversity. The results will be used by staff and the committee to refine priorities consistent with the Guiding Principles and JAG Goals.
 - The research staff will create a survey based on information collected in the focus groups and disseminate it to Illinois' larger public safety community.
 - Authority staff also will gather funding information from other Illinois state agencies that addresses or could address the needs and emerging issues identified. This information will help us to further refine Byrne JAG priorities.
 - The survey results and funding assessment will be presented to help the Committee determine priorities

- Staff will recommend an impact and feasibility tool to help the Committee determine priorities.
2. Action step: “The Committee will develop particular goals and objectives for the Authority’s use of research-informed RFPs on all of its federal grants, informed by the 2014 Illinois Grant Accountability and Transparency Act (GATA).”
- Staff recommendation:
 - As the Research & Analysis Unit helps identify Illinois funding priorities for Byrne JAG programs, the Authority’s Federal & State Grants Unit will develop a timeline to roll out competitive requests for proposals based on the Committee’s recommendations and the findings from Action Step #1.
3. Action step: “The Committee will create criteria for how the Authority will define and assess Byrne JAG programs that deliver a statewide benefit” and be used to potentially exempt funding requests from a competitive process, pending Budget Committee approval.
- Staff recommendation:
 - The Authority should define “statewide benefit” as that which supports ICJIA’s mandated purposes: “[T]o coordinate the use of information in the criminal justice system; to promulgate effective criminal justice information policy; to encourage the improvement of criminal justice agency procedures and practices with respect to information; to provide new information technologies; to permit the evaluation of information practices and programs; to stimulate research and development of new methods and uses of criminal justice information for the improvement of the criminal justice system and the reduction of crime; to protect the integrity of criminal history record information, while protecting the citizen's right to privacy[.]” (20 ILCS 3930/2)
 - This criterion would enable the Authority to support its research and information-sharing capacities without the necessity of a competitive RFP process, pending Budget Committee approval.

As you can see, we plan to have an important discussion and we will greatly appreciate your time. Please notify Reshma Desai of your attendance status, if you haven’t already done so. We look forward to seeing you.

“Good” Policy, Management and Practice Includes Research and Evaluation

- Research is used on an ongoing basis by agencies, government and businesses to identify “performance gaps” as part of an effective management process;
- The formulation of solutions/responses to identified performance gaps relies on research and policy analysis as a guide;
- Implemented solutions/responses are monitored/evaluated to gauge implementation & impact as part of an effective management process—individual, unit, agency, system.
- However, this is rarely donewhy?

The Criminal Justice “System”

- Individual components (units of government, agencies, organizations, communities) that collectively seek to prevent and reduce crime.
 - County-level makes the most sense in most places (but not limited to county agencies)
- Not necessarily coordinated, no overarching goal or strategy, limited systematic examination or evaluation, and limited synthesis of information about the system’s operations.
- No statutory “leader” or “czar” of the justice system, but opportunities exist for leaders to emerge.
 - Multidisciplinary councils (ad hoc or on-going)

The Need for, and Benefits of, Coordinated Strategic Plans (or at least communication)

- Need to understand how “system” operates and how individual organizations are impacted by, and impact, other organizations (silos; communication).
- Need for objective information to be available to support (or question) policy, go beyond rhetoric towards research, and to create “learning environments” (figuring out the “why”)
- Need to respond effectively and in an informed way to funding opportunities, media inquiries, crises

What role could (should) ICJIA play?

- The origins and evolution of the “county profiles”
 - State strategy and geographic allocation of resources required extensive data collection and analyses.
 - A lot of data gets collected/reported “up” but very little gets communicated back down
 - First iteration: 5,000 foot view, economy of scale, lots of data/perspective, lots led to the water, but was there drinking and were the dots connected?
 - Ok, so now what
- What now?
 - Even greater amount of data available, increased technological capacities, increased “interest”

Opportunities and Challenges

- Challenges

- Forming, maintaining, and making the process routine within changing political environments
- Analytic capacity to examine data at a more detailed/localized level
- Ensuring objectivity, developing trust in the process

- Benefits

- Individual agencies/organizations having a better understanding of how the system as a whole operates
- Having information available to answer policy-relevant questions (good or bad policy)
- Increased coordination (or at least communication)
